

Jason Crews <jason.crews@gmail.com>

Yankee Dave

4 messages

Jason Crews <jason.crews@gmail.com>
To: "O.J. Hickox" <hickox@haloisp.net>

Thu, Dec 4, 2014 at 9:57 PM

Hey,

I think I may have asked you this, but I can't remember the answer. Where does the "Yankee Dave" come from? I haven't run across any documents with that name in it yet.

Jason Crews

O. J. Hickox <hickox@haloisp.net>
To: Jason Crews <jason.crews@gmail.com>

Fri, Dec 5, 2014 at 6:07 AM

There aren't any documents. My father and his siblings used that moniker to differentiate between their Great-Great Grandfather David Hickox and his descendants with the same name, particularly a grandson who was named after him, their grandfather David Eugene Hickox. They called DEH "Grand-Pa Dave" and their Great-Great Grandfather "Yankee Dave" to avoid confusion between the two of them. Because there are so many other Davids in the family (my brother is one of them), that habit seems to have caught on with much of the rest of the family.

[Quoted text hidden]

Jason Crews <jason.crews@gmail.com>
To: "O. J. Hickox" <hickox@haloisp.net>

Fri, Dec 5, 2014 at 1:17 PM

Oh I know! I am only to his grand kids and their are sever I have found.

It's a good way to distinguish him from the others?

I know you took your dna test through ancestry. Would you consider sending me your raw data from them so I can see if their are any other matches on any of the other sites out their?

[Quoted text hidden]

O. J. Hickox <hickox@haloisp.net>
To: Jason Crews <jason.crews@gmail.com>

Fri, Dec 5, 2014 at 3:26 PM

Jason, I don't know what my "raw data" is. I have a personal DNA page which is accessed from the ancestry.com website, and it has links to all my results, but I don't see anything that looks like raw data. Are you asking to access my DNA page ? If so, I don't know how to do that. Do you ?

Do you have a subscription to ancestry.com, and do you have a DNA page ? If so, you can do a surname search under Hickox on all your cousins (people who have submitted DNA to ancestry and have been linked to you via their DNA analysis) that will ID those that connect to you via the Hickox line. But, I don't know how you can export the amcestry.com DNA info to other websites, if that's even possible.

[Quoted text hidden]